

Worcester, Bosch Group Granted Which? Best Buy Accreditation

Worcester is part of the Bosch Group and over the years has developed into a market leader in domestic heating and hot water systems. It's a name that stands for reliability, quality, efficiency and value for money. Worcester's home heating products include condensing boilers and renewable energy products - solar panels, ground source heat pumps and air source heat pumps.

Every single boiler in Worcester, Bosch Group's Greenstar gas-fired condensing range has been awarded a Which? Best Buy accreditation after receiving top customer satisfaction scores for reliability and servicing in the latest Which? survey.

Worcester's award-winning Greenstar gas-fired boilers claimed the top spot for brand customer satisfaction, whilst no other brand featured higher than Worcester in the brand reliability category. These results were further strengthened by the fact that a third of survey respondents had opted for a Worcester boiler, making it the most popular brand among Which? members.

The Which? report commented: "When we surveyed customers to find out which companies please their customers most, Worcester came top for the fourth year running."
